

he'd better be ready for everything I'm going to lay on him. I'll whip him worse than his parents ever did. And that's what I mean. If people are sick, stay in a sick man's position and don't try that mess with me, and I mean it. And if Senator Withem is going to call a bill every time, that has to be the way with every bill, all of you all's bills too. So, here is my proposal. We can check the amount of time that 1066 has had and if that is all the time that any bill will be given for the rest of the session, I will not object, Senator Withem, to pulling 1066 right now and I will not ask that it be put on the agenda again. That, I will agree to do. And I can understand the feeling that you have because you're somewhat like the captain of the ship and you see it headed for the shoals so you try to do what you think is necessary to save the ship. But you have a recalcitrant ...recalcitrant crew and they're not going to agree with what you see as being necessary to be done being done. But when people start making certain types of statements and there are consequences that flow from those statements, it's not your fault, and, Senator Withem, you cannot treat grown men in here as though they're your children and feel a responsibility...

PRESIDENT ROBAK: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...to stop certain things from happening if those things are provoked. And that's what people need to understand. Now if...if Senator Pappas is doing this because he feels he has to make his money, he has made his money. And I've said earlier and I'll say it again, his doing this does not alter my relationship with him. I still like Jim. This is the tactic that he, as a lobbyist, feels is necessary to serve his client, which is the British government. And you all know that and I know it. But it's up to us to just go ahead and let this thing work itself out. Have you heard me try to call the question one time? Not one, and if it was called, I wouldn't vote for it.

PRESIDENT ROBAK: Thank you, Senator Chambers. Senator Hall.

SENATOR HALL: Thank you, Madam President and members, I apologize to the body if I got a little out of line. I'm not having a good...I'm not having a good year. Let's reconsider it. I will withdraw the amendment. But, Rex, don't ever talk to me again.

PRESIDENT ROBAK: Senator Withem.
